In considering the millions of assets accumulated and held by life insurance companies to enable them to fulfill in the future all their outstanding contracts, promising payments of vast amounts after stated periods, or at the death of persons insured, the fact should not be overlooked that in the past these companies have already paid their policy holders immense sums in death and endowment claims, dividends, etc. That the sums so paid are a large proportion of the total premiums paid by policy holders may be seen from the following table, compiled from the official records of the New York Insurance Department.

Company	Commenced Business	Total Premiums Rec'd	Total Amount Paid to Policyholders	Paid per $100 Rec'd

UPTON SINCLAIR ON

PACKING HOUSE MEAT.
(Upton Sinclair is the author of the Jungle, a book which is said to have started the present inquiry into packing house conditions.)

I charge, and I have proved, that J. Ogden Armour is guilty of bribery and corruption and of criminal negligence or worse, in the preparation of the food of an entire nation, and Armour has not sued me, though I have dared him again and again to do it. Is it because Armour's shrewd detectives have found the names of the men who have promised to go on the stand and back me in case it comes to a fight.

I charge, that Philip Armour was killed by the horrors of the havoc he wrought in the Spanish-American war by the slaughter of soldiers through poisoned meats.

I charge, and I have proved, that the beef trust spent millions of dollars to hush those scandals, and that they paid $70,000 to one chemist to testify that tainted meat was clean.

I charge, and I have proved, that this same poisoned, diseased, filthy meat still is made into food, and that Armour alone every year sends out 20,000,000 pounds of boiled-out meat pulp as "canned roast beef."

I charge, and I have proved, that spoiled hams, with over-powering odor, are modified by the use of preservatives, poisons and chemicals that take away the smell, but leave the taint, and that these hams are sold in every market in the world.

I charge, and I have proved, that dyes and color matter that give to sausage the "smoke" color of commerce and bring back the tainted meat to its original hue are a staple of commerce.

I charge, and I have proved, that "bull meat powder," "zero preservative" and other compounds are ground up with sausage meat and tinned Hamburger steak.

I charge, and I have proved, that decomposed meat is canned.

I charge, and I have proved, that meat is dropped on floors where men expectorate and that it is not afterward cleaned.

I charge, and I have proved, that men have fallen into the boiling lard vats and been rendered into lard.

I charge, and I have proved, that human fingers and hands go into sausages machines as human flesh and come out as sausage.

I charge, and I have proved, that diseased, condemned, crippled and shriveled cattle and hogs are regularly slaughtered, prepared for the market and sold as first-class meat by the packers.

I charge, and I have proved, that commission men control the Standard Slaughtering company, which kills so-called "quarantined cattle" that are bought at half price, although in perfect condition, the commission men selling the beef at market prices.

I charge, and I have proved, that the condemned meat industry is a business that has grown up with the trust systems of large-scale slaughtering and refrigerator-car distribution, so that now all the old, dried-up, crippled and diseased cattle, which formerly were buried in the farmer's back lot, are gathered up and shipped to the nearest trust factory, to be converted into some sort of food.

I charge, and I have proved, that the Armour recipe for potted ham is to take the nubs of smoked beef, moldy and full of maggots, and grind it in great hoppers with rind trimmings.

I charge, and I have proved, that the sanitary conditions in the packing houses are so grossly inadequate as to be beyond words to express.

I charge, and I have proved, that the habits of the employees who handle foodstuffs are filthy in the extreme.

I charge, and I have proved, that the cleansing of the killing and packing rooms is inadequate.

I charge, and I have proved, that inspectors have been carefully excluded from the rooms where canned goods are put up, where sausages are made, where tainted meat is preserved, and where spoiled hams are preserved.

I charge, and I have proved, that skinned hams, which are supposed to be a special product, are only the hams of old hogs with skins so thick and tough that no one will buy them.

I charge, and I have proved that the skins removed from these old hogs are ground up with spice and potato flour and sold as head cheese.

I charge, and I am ready to prove, that the packers have offered bribes to representatives of the United States government.

Woolverton Business College.

The Woolverton Practical Business College Co. is now selling unlimited scholarships at $55. These scholarships are rated at $85. Those desiring scholarships can save $30 by buying now. This low rate was put on just to give the school a start. Thirty-one pupils have entered, hence the rate may be changed back to $85. This company will erect and equip a $10,000.00 college building somewhere in New Mexico, and make said location headquarters for the company's business in the Territory.

Roswell is almost sure to get this building. Some of the business men are encouraging the proposition to a great extent, but a message was received this morning from the company's board of directors to "Stop the proposition until further investigations are made."

This company is not asking the business men to donate money to put in this enterprise. However, their hearty co-operation is necessary and is respectfully solicited. No man can succeed in business without the co-operation of his fellow men, and a first class business college is his best friend, in a financial way as well as otherwise. For information address: W. T. WOOLVERTON.

AVOID THESE THINGS.

Albuquerque Citizen.

This is the time of year the deadly ptomaine poison prowls in search of victims. It may lurk in a succulent pork chop, a dainty morsel of high game, a fat veal pie or many other dishes prepared from animal foods.

Your sense of smell or taste may not detect its presence. But a quaking stomach, a burning, swimming head and sickening nausea, together with an old-fashioned green apple abdominal twinge, will inform you convincingly that you and ptomaine poison have met.

Dr. Alpheus Freeman, diagnostician of the Presbyterian hospital, New York, says that ptomaine poisoning is chemical, and believes the theory that pesky little germs are its advance agents. "It is a most virulent poison," said he. People have been known to die from its effects with in two hours after the first symptom appeared.

"Ptomaine poison is contracted mainly from putrefied animal foods (such as the packing companies have been selling to the people.) Most frequently it comes from pork and shell fish. Among the most common carriers of the poison are infected sausage, pork pie, head cheese, beef, veal, mutton, meats from very young animals, fish, oysters, clams, mussels, ice cream, milk, game meats—the grouse particularly—and canned meats.

"The symptoms are not always immediate. They often include languor, nausea, griping, fever or dizziness. Many cases prove fatal and medical science has by no means mastered the disease.

"During the hot months it might be a safe policy to avoid animal foods as much as possible, or at least cook them well before eating.

"Upon discovery of ptomaine poisoning an emetic should be given if it is likely that the infected matter is still in the stomach, a quick cathartic if otherwise. A physician will also use means of stimulating the shocked heart and nervous system."

Avoid sausage, pork pie, head cheese, tinned beef, veal, mutton, salted sturgeon, shell-fish, fish long exposed, old milk, poor ice cream. Cook all animal foods well. Eat vegetable matter in preference, and be sure your meats are not packing house products.

WEDDING TO UNITE TWO FAMOUS OLD FAMILIES.

Granddaughter of First U. S. Judge in New Mexico to Wed. Albuquerque Journal, June 4.

A marriage which will unite representatives of two well-known families will take place at the Catholic church in Baretas at six o'clock this morning, when Antonio Stanton, a son of Abram Stanton, one of the earliest American settlers of the county, will be united in wedlock with Miss Mercedes Chavez. The bride will be given away by her uncle, Hon. Manuel R. Otero, register of the United States land office. The bride's sister, Miss Virginia Chavez, will act as bridesmaid, and a brother of the groom, Mr. Charles H. Stanton, who has come down from Wagon Mound to attend the ceremony, will serve as best man. Immediately after the wedding breakfast the bridal party will take the train for the north. Mr. Stanton and his bride, after a tour of a few weeks, will return and take up their residence in Baretas.

The bride's grandfather, Hon. Antonio Jose Otero, was the first United States district judge appointed to New Mexico, and has the distinction of being the only native citizen who ever occupied a seat on the Federal bench of the Territory.

THE WOMAN'S CLUB.

Holds Annual Business Meeting and Elects Officers.

The annual meeting of the Woman's Club, which was held Wednesday afternoon in the Club room, was the most enthusiastic meeting in the history of the Club. The yearly reports of the officers, and various committees show it to have been the most prosperous year of the organization.

The Secretary spoke feelingly of the loss the Club had sustained in the death of Mrs. Millard W. Stone, who was one of the old members and one who faithfully performed any work assigned to her. The Treasurer reported that all members had paid their dues for the past year, a thing that had not occurred for some years. Amount on hand $150.47; the Entertainment committee reported that the lecture given by Mr. Jolly netted to the Club $51.50.

The Membership, Program, Social, Musical and Educational Committees all reported good work.

The Shakespeare Auxiliary had a good report. They will study King John and Richard III. the coming year.

The Peacock medal is to be disposed of for the benefit of the Library. Mrs. Peacock is chairman of the committee.

Moved and carried that the Club furnish a ward of four beds in St. Mary's Hospital. Seventy-five dollars of Club funds on hand was voted for the ward, and the balance is to be raised by the committee, of which Mrs. G. A. Richardson is chairman.

The following officers were elected. Mrs. C. E. Mason being re-elected president by acclamation:

Mrs. Betty Peacock, First Vice President.

Mrs. Maude Earle, 2nd Vice Pres.

Mrs. Mary W. Reyes, 3rd Vice Pres.

Miss Marie M. Holt, recording secretary.

Mrs. C. A. Norvelle, corresponding secretary.

Mrs. A. Pruitt, Treasurer.

Mrs. G. A. Richardson, Auditor.

After some discussion about the work for the coming year, which brought out the wishes of those present—it was voted to leave it in the hands of the program committee, who will be guided by the discussion in the selection of topics.
